INTRODUCTION

Our Code of Conduct is based on our values and provides guidance on how our managers, employees and suppliers should act and make correct decisions on a day-to-day level.

Our managers have an overarching responsibility to practise their leadership in accordance with our Code of Conduct so that a culture is created in which our Code of Conduct is valued and complied with.

We want to be a competitive, fair, respectful and trusted partner to our customers, our existing and future colleagues, our suppliers and other stakeholders. To us, it is therefore important to work in a committed way to ensure that our business will be sustainable, in terms of the planet, our society, our fellow human beings and our stakeholders.

This means that all of us must take the time to read and understand the Code, apply it consistently and ask if anything appears unclear.

We are proud of our company and we know that, by following our Code of Conduct uncompromisingly, we can continue to be a business that works in a responsible and sustainable way.

We have chosen to divide our Code of Conduct into three areas that show what we wish to have an effect through our Code of Conduct and our work on sustainability.

- OUR BUSINESS RELATIONS

- OUR ENVIRONMENT

- OUR FELLOW HUMAN BEINGS

Our important base is our core values.

OUR CORE VALUES

All our decisions, both major and minor, are filtered through our core values. They summarise what we stand for and are an important tool in our working day.

Customer focus

A central concept in all situations. By listening carefully, we can cater for the customers' needs and develop relationships. Our experience tells us that, the longer relationship, the more satisfied customer.

Commitment

Constant learning allows us to grow. We make fast decisions, but never at the expense of quality. With us, you are involved and have an influence by actively taking part in discussions and projects.

Personality

We respect each other's opinions and achieve our goals through cooperation. Everyone who works at Skeppsviken has their feet on the ground, says what they think and does what they say. With us, you can be yourself!

Innovation

We question old habits and constantly look for new solutions. We act quickly if the circumstances change. We listen more than we talk. Knowledge and experience are there to be shared.

OUR BUSINESS RELATIONS

We have a responsibility to ensure that a sustainable society is enshrined in our business and governance, and that we create the right conditions to conduct a healthy business. We see sustainability as part of our business strategy and, by allowing it to be a part of our decisions, we can work actively on sustainability.

- We follow the guidelines of the UN's Global Compact

OUR ENVIRONMENT

We have a responsibility and incentive to contribute to the public good and to a better world for the current and future generations.

Responsibility for our environment

- We protect and care for the climate and environment
- We work with our customers and suppliers to press forward the development of environmentally sound products and solutions

Actions that violate the Code of Conduct will lead to remedial measures being taken.

If i cannot find the answer in our Code of Conduct?

Our Code of Conduct cannot describe every situation that arises. If you are not sure what is right, you can ask yourselves the questions below.

- Is it against the law?
- Is it unethical?
- Could it damage Skeppsviken's or our customer's reputation?
- Would I be ashamed if it reached the media or my colleagues?

If you have answered Yes to any of the above questions, have a talk with your immediate manager about how to deal with the situation.

As a manager, you can also contact the Swedish Construction Federation's ethics coach for advice and support on matters relating to business ethics.

What is modern slave labour?

Forced labour is any work or service that people are forced to do against their will, under the threat of punishment and where the person did not voluntarily apply.

Human trafficking includes the recruitment, housing or transportation of people under exploitative conditions using violence, deception or coercion, and by forcing them to work against their will.
